MOLDING DEFINITIONS

ANTIQUE MOLDINGS. Moldings designed to resemble the older, late 19th and early 20th century moldings. Used for house molding, trim and decoration. Also used as picture frames etc.

BACK BANDS. Used as a cap on plywood, or shelves and corner edge covers.

BACK RELIEF KNIFE. Used to cut up to ¼ of an inch deep on the back of moldings to allow them to set up against the wall tighter.

BAR RAIL. Used for the edge rail of a bar.

BASE CAP. Use by itself for decoration or in combination with other moldings. Gives a finished appearance to square or flat edge.

BASE MOLDING. Used to conceal joints at the junction of wall and floor, picture frames, decorative trim for furniture, doors, etc.

BATTEN. Can be used with other moldings to enhance the décor.

BEDS. Used as top decorative trim the top of furniture or cabinets.

BENCH SLATS. Knives to cut molding for use as slats for outdoor furniture such as benches and chairs.

BRICK MOLDING. Primarily used as outside window and door trim.

CAP MOLDINGS. Used as a cap on plywood, or shelves and corner edge covers.

CASING. Used to conceal joints around windows and doors, picture frames and accent room design.

CHAIR RAIL. Used around the wall to style and keep chairs from hitting the wall. Placed about 30 to 36 inches off the floor. Also used as picture frames.

CHAMFER STRIP. Used as an inside corner and a glue board for 45 degree angles.

CORNER GAURDS. Used to cover outside corners, along shelf edges and corners of furniture.

COVES. Used to conceal joints at the junction of wall and floor, picture frames, decorative trim for furniture, doors, etc.

CROWNS. Used in covering wall to ceiling joints, picture frames and other decorative uses. Can be used independently or in combination with other moldings such as stops or half rounds.

DRIP CAPS. Used at the top of windows and doors to keep moisture from getting in the walls.

EDGE KNIFE. Used to cut the edge off of a board up to 1 inch thick.

GLASS BEAD. This type of molding is used to hold glass in place in a door. It is also used to decorate inside corners.

HANDRAIL. Used as hand-holds on stairs and along ledges.

INSIDE CORNER. To cover the crack of an inside corner, ceiling to wall and other 90 degree corner areas.

LATTICE. Used to produce square cornered boards to be used along with other moldings to trim or by itself to make such things as trellis, slats and guides.

LOG CABIN SIDING. Knives for cutting log cabin siding.

MANTEL MOLDING. Knives for cutting molding designed especially for mantels.

PANEL MOLDING. Used to cover joints in paneling, picture frames, and to decorate and style.

PARTING CUT. Knives used to cut boards in two up to ¾ of an inch thick.

PICTURE MOLDING. Used as picture frames. Attached to a wall to hang pictures from using a hook over frame. Also used with other moldings to decorate.

QUARTER ROUNDS. Used in many areas to cover inside corners. Yields good coverage over rough contours.

RABBET CUT. Knives used to cut various depths to 1 inch deep and 1 inch wide.

ROSETTE CUTTERS. For cutting rosettes for the corners of windows and doors. Also used for making wheels for toys.
